The fate of the other eight amendments remains uncertain, but on returns thus far, chiefly from the cities they are running ahead by margins of 2,000 to 5,000 votes.

The tabulation by The Associated Press from 469 precincts at noon showed the following:

Veteran Politician Dies Early Today

Served Third District of State in Congress For Ten Years

YELLEVILLE Ark., Nov. 5.—(AP)—J. C. Floyd, 72-year-old representative of the Third Arkansas District in Congress from 1905 to 1915 died suddenly this morning.

A son, Berry Floyd, with whom he lived returned to his home at 4 a. m. from his duties as an election official, found his father on the front porch dead.

His death was unexpected as the veteran politician had been in unusually good health this fall from all appearance.

Another son, R. H. Floyd, of Washington D. C., and daughter, Miss Mena Floyd of St. Louis, survive.

Mr. Floyd was succeeded July 1915 by the late John L. Tillman, who retired two years ago.

Floyd was an unsuccessful candidate for Governor of Arkansas in 1920.

Wild Oil Well Tamed at Last

After days and nights of desperate work, during which time Oklahoma City was threatened by the danger of a wild "gusher" oil well that had imperiled the city under control, this photo shows a view of the well with its 300-foot plume of oil that sprayed the entire neighborhood.

Trio Kidnaps and Then Robs Victim

Insurance Co. Cashier Is "Taken For a Ride" to State Fair Park

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 5.—Three white men forced Wilson H. McAllister, 4905 Prospect avenue, insurance company cashier, into an automobile near his home Tuesday night, took him to Fair Park and released him there after taking between $25 and $30.

McAllister told police that he had ridden a street car to Prospect avenue and Q street and then had set out to walk the short distance to his home. Two pedestrians approached and as they drew abreast of him each seized one of McAllister's arms.

At the same time a Chevrolet sedan, driven by the third robber, drew up to the curb. McAllister's captors forced him into the rear seat, took positions on either side of him and one covered him with a pistol, cautioning him to keep quiet and to keep looking straight ahead.

At Fair park the two men went systematically through the victim's pockets, taking all his money, two cigars and a package of chewing gum. McAllister told them that an injured ankle made it difficult for him to walk and asked the men to give him car fare. They gave him six cents, put him out of the car and drove rapidly away, warning him not to watch the automobile.

McAllister notified police and Detective Sergeants Traewick and Barrett were assigned to the case. McAllister could give only a meager description of his captors. He said that all wore dark hats and were without overcoats. The smallest member of the trio did the driving, he said.

Former Policeman of Memphis Accused in La.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 5.—(AP)—E. Skillman, 37, former Memphis police desk sergeant and motorcycle patrolman, was arrested here today as a suspect in a Shreveport (La.) robbery.

Police said he is wanted in connection with the theft of $125 from the Ruby Motor company at Shreveport last year.

Two officers recognized Skillman on a street here. He was discharged from the department here on a charge of irregular handling of a forfeit in 1925.

County Votes For Income Tax; Beats Amendment No. 20

Bible Act Appears Likely to Carry By Safe Margin

OTHERS UNCERTAIN

The City of Hope Favors Amendments—Rural Districts Oppose

Thirteen out of thirty-six precincts in Hempstead county complete at noon today, give the following results on the referendum measures submitted at Tuesday's general election:

Measure	For	Against
Income tax	583	250
Bible act	504	359
Amd. No. 19	434	424
No. 20	234	698
No. 21	449	445
No. 22	470	418
No. 23	475	411
No. 24	442	446
No. 25	385	477
No. 26	470	406
No. 27	442	413

Complete boxes reported up to noon today were: Hope Ward One, Ward Two, Ward Three, Ward Four, Rural Box No. 5; McNab, DeAnn, Rocky Mound, Patmos, Battletield, Spring Hill, Shover Springs, Cross Roads.

The outstanding developments of the election are the same locally as in the state-at-large. The income tax is upheld by a large majority. The Cazorl amendment—No. 20—to abolish the appointive state highway commission is overwhelmingly defeated.

The Bible act appears likely to carry the county, but only by a small margin.

Amendments In Balance
The fate of the seven amendments sponsored by the Arkansas Taxpayers association, in this county, is uncertain. No. 24 is running behind on the basis of complete returns from 13 out of 36 precincts, and the vote on all the amendments is extremely close.

On the basis of the performance in the City of Hope, where the amendments, except the highway measure No. 20 were given decisive majorities, and the first eight county boxes, which voted against them—the Arkansas Taxpayers association measures appear defeated in this county.

None of the amendments locally have sufficient margins thus far to stand up under the adverse country vote indicated on the early count. All five Hope boxes, and eight country precincts have been heard from, complete. But 23 boxes, all in the rural districts, remain to be reported to Secretary D. B. Thompson of the county election board.

Glass Worker Says Killed Friends Wife

Was Offered $2000 By His Friend to Shoot Wife of Latter

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Shortly after arresting Ben J. Brown, 27, a Hunting Park glass worker, he confessed that he killed Mrs. Merle Ellis, after her husband, Emory Ellis, had offered him $2000 to kill her.

Mrs. Ellis was found in her bed from shotgun wounds. Her 18-month-old son with whom she was sleeping was not injured.

It is said that she and her husband had been at odds for some time. A check-up by the officers disclosed the fact that Ellis had worked all night on the night of the killing. After an investigation of Ellis's friends, Brown was arrested.

Texarkana Chief Expects Robberies

Believes Recent Looting of Grocery Stores Caused By Hunger

TEXARKANA, Nov. 5.—(AP)—Smashing three large grocery store windows and looting of places here during the past three days is attributed to hunger by Police Chief I. H. Lanier.

Several hundred pounds of meat was stolen early this morning from a downtown grocery store after a large window had been smashed with a rock.

The police chief said that these occurrences probably would be more numerous during the remainder of the winter months, with so much unemployment.

Armistice Day To Be Holiday Here

Hope Stores Will Close at 11 a. m. on Tuesday, November 11—Good Will Excursion to Rosston and Bodcaw—Many to Attend Ball Game at Prescott

Armistice Day, next Tuesday, November 11, is to be observed in Hope according to plans now being arranged by the local American Legion post.

Through the courtesy of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Business & Professional Women's club and the Legions post, more than 100 downtown stores and places of business have already signed a petition to close for the day at 11 a. m. Banks and jewelry stores are to remain closed all day. Filling stations and several of the drug stores are to open again for business at 6 p. m. The Hope Star will appear an hour earlier that day.

All downtown places of business have signified their intention of closing, except hotels, restaurants, and delivery offices. There will be no delivery of mail in the business section after 11 a. m. Shoppers are being asked to make their purchases before the closing hour on this holiday. This is the first time Armistice day has been observed in Hope, except by the banks.

Members of the Hope Retail Merchants association, accompanied by the Hope Boys' Band, are to make a good will trip to Bodcaw and Rosston, leaving Hope at 11 a. m. Armistice day. The occasion will serve to celebrate the opening of the all-weather road recently completed to those communities. Homer Figg, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is today making arrangements for a barbeque at one of the two towns.

Many Hope people will attend the football game at Prescott between Hope and that city. The festivities at Rosston and Bodcaw are expected to be completed in time for this game.

A short program of observance, to be presented at 9 p. m. at Seeger theatre is being arranged.

The flag corps of the local national guard unit, accompanied by their bugler, are to have a five-minute program commemorating the event. The audience will be asked to sing the national anthem.

Members of the local Legion post are to complete plans for observance of the day at their regular meeting Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the city hall.

The council will have no authority over the activities of any of the clubs, but it is expected to unify the efforts of the three clubs in large community projects. It will act as a clearing house for such matters as a single club could not and should not assume. The council will meet regularly the second Tuesday evening of every odd-numbered month.

Governor's Air Gun Exterminating Rats
AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 5.—(UP)—Governor Dan Moody is ridding the Texas executive mansion of rats.

Using a small airgun he kills them with the first shot. The odd mansion, dating back to the time of Sam Houston, has many hiding places for the rodents.

D. S. Law, his companion in the automobile, was killed instantly when the train struck the vehicle at the Elm street crossing in Bald Knob. Law was a well-known truck farmer living a few miles from Bald Knob and was one of the leading strawberry growers of the section.

Officials of the Missouri Pacific held an investigation of the accident yesterday at Bald Knob.

Funeral arrangements for Ford have not been completed. He is survived by his wife and parents.

100 Miners Trapped In Coal Mine After Explosion Today

Three Hundred in Mine at Time of Explosion; Many Injured

THE MINE IS ON FIRE

Rescue Workers Unable to Reach Those Trapped on Account of Heat

ATHENS, Ohio, Nov. 5.—(AP)—In a gas explosion in the Sunday Creek Coal Company mine, No. 56, at Millfield, near here this afternoon, one hundred miners are reported to be trapped in the workings.

There were three hundred men in the mine at the time of the explosion, of that number approximately half of them have been brought out. Many of those rescued are injured and practically all of them are suffering from the effects of the gas fumes.

Of the number trapped, most of them are thought to be about a mile inside the mine.

The shaft is two hundred and fifty feet deep. There is only one level in the mine.

The mine is on fire and it is not known how badly the shaft is damaged from the explosion. Rescue workers are unable to get into the tunnel on account of the heat and gas fumes.

This mine was acquired by the Sunday company recently upon the reorganization of the Hoking coal field and was formerly the property of the Poston interests.

Committee Visits Experiment Station

Several Resolutions Are Proposed For Benefit of Station

The Visiting Committee of the Fruit and Truck Branch Experiment Station, composed of N. O. Neal, Hope, president; A. J. Stevens, Prescott, vice-president; Lewis McCollum, DeQueen; E. G. Anderson, Texarkana; T. H. Pope, Nashville; S. M. Crawford, Arkadelphia; and V. W. St. John, Mena, recently held its official annual meeting at the experiment station near Hope.

G. W. Ware, assistant director in charge of the station, and assistants G. A. Stockdale and J. Louis Hiler, conducted the committee over the entire farm and through all buildings, giving them an opportunity to thoroughly inspect all work and improvements.

The committee, which is an Honorary Board appointed by the Board of Trustees of the University of Arkansas, was highly pleased with the rapid growth and development of this station. It was the unanimous opinion of all members present that the station had reached that stage of development whereby it will exert a great influence on Southwest Arkansas Agriculture.

The committee drew up several resolutions, the outstanding ones being:

1. That the people visit the station, study its various experimental results, and apply same to farm conditions.
2. That the station be given liberal financial support in order that it might continue in a creditable manner the many experiments now under way.
3. That the State Highway Department provide a concrete spur from the new proposed Highway No. 67 to the experiment station grounds, since the station will soon be left on an abandoned county road. Failure to establish necessary road facilities to the station will be detrimental to the purpose and value of the institution.

The committee voted to hold its official visit in the fall of each year, and in addition to visit and encourage as many other people as possible to visit the station frequently.

Congress Seats; May Control It

Ham Lewis Beats Mrs. McCormick in Illinois—Democrats Carrying Senate Seat in Ohio—Franklin Roosevelt Re-Elected Governor of New York by 700,000 Majority

By The Associated Press

National election returns gathered by The Associated Press all over the United States up to 2:15 o'clock this afternoon showed an apparent Democratic landslide in the general election yesterday.

At that hour today the Democrats had captured 109 seats in the House of Representatives, against 186 for the Republicans.

Whether the Democrats will nominally control the lower house, remains uncertain; but they have made tremendous gains and have probably destroyed the president's working majority in congress.

The Democrats needed 53 new members to control the house. They are known to have picked up 21, with enough more in doubt to give them an actual majority. Five districts are disputed in Kentucky, where under a new state-law the counting of yesterday's ballots did not begin until today. Three other states remain undecided.

In the senate, the Democrats are to gain 10 in order to control.

Lewis Beats McCormick
They swept the Illinois election famous old James (Ham) Lewis, Democratic whip of a generation ago, overwhelping Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican by a quarter of a million majority. This was one of the 50 seats the Democrats needed to win, but had been regarded as doubtful.

In Ohio, Democratic Robert Taft, Bulkeley was leading Rostow G. McCulloch, Republican senator seeking re-election, by 47,000 votes early this morning. The Republican had not conceded Bulkeley's election, but observers believed the Democrat would win.

The Democratic tide surged back to score a victory also in Oklahoma, where Thomas P. Gore has a big lead over the Republican Senator W. B. Pine. Gore was Democratic senator for 13 years, and will apparently carry this seat back to the Democratic side of the upper house. Pine took the cities' vote, but Gore rolled up a staggering majority in the rural districts, and wasn't far behind Pine in the cities.

Roosevelt in New York
Other state results having more or less national significance, included the tremendous personal victory of Governor Franklin Roosevelt, who was re-elected governor of New York by 700,000 majority—the greatest in the history of the Empire state. His was a Democratic victory despite the charges of corruption recently launched against Tammany Hall in New York city, and which Roosevelt vigorously prosecuted as head of the state government.

In Minnesota, Elinor Hoidale, Minneapolis Democrat, was leading Thomas D. Schall, Republican, for the senate.

The Democrats appeared to have put down the revolt launched in Alabama by Senator Thomas J. Heflin. Latest dispatches indicated the election of the regular standard-bearer, John H. Bankhead, over the former senator, who is running on an independent Jeffersonian ticket.

Hunting Accident Causes Fatality

COTTON PLANT, Nov. 5.—Frye Doyle, aged 28, manager of the H. S. Doyle plantation near here, was killed Tuesday afternoon when a shotgun carried on the shoulder of his friend and hunting companion, Lester Crawford, 25, was discharged accidentally.

The men were hunting in the White river swamps, 12 miles east of Cotton Plant. They were on their way back to their automobile when the accident occurred.

Crawford was walking ahead down a narrow path with his shotgun over his shoulder. Doyle was a few feet behind him. Crawford said that his gun was discharged in a manner that he could not explain and he turned to see Doyle fall with the charge through his heart. Doyle died almost instantly.

Crawford ran to a nearby farmhouse and summoned aid. A party went from here to bring back the body.

Doyle is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Doyle, the former a retired contractor and planter; his wife, a three-year-old daughter, Mickey, and a sister, Mrs. Buena A. Doyle. Doyle, employee of the state health department at Little Rock, Mrs. Foster was visiting her parents here.

Crawford is owner of the Crawford transfer company.

Arson squads are being formed throughout Oklahoma in an attempt to reduce the number of incendiary fires.

Pastor Asks Salary Cut

Foiling The Kidnapers

EARL YOCUM, the Illinois banker who was kidnaped for ransom by a gang of bandits, seems to have played a remarkably clever game with his captors.

You remember, doubtless, how Mrs. Yocum, during his absence, announced that she was going to pay the ransom and nothing. When Yocum was given his freedom, after a few days of captivity, he refused to discuss the case, and it looked as if he had bought his liberty for cash and was well satisfied with his bargain.

Under the surface, however, Mr. Yocum was playing his cards with a good deal of skill. All the information that he and his wife had was being given to the authorities. Thus, just one more instance of underworld triumph, two of the bandits were rounded up, a confession was secured from one of them, and officers were sent out to get the other two.

The banker, then, seems to have come out on top all the way around. The kidnapers did not even get the ransom money. A package was left at the spot they directed in their letter to Mrs. Yocum, and the kidnapers, supposing it to contain the $50,000 in bills, turned Yocum loose; but they learned, to their sorrow, when they opened it that it contained a nice assortment of sticks of wood instead of hard cash.

There is something of a moral in this whole episode. It indicates that foiling a gang of gunmen is not quite as impossible a job as we often supposed. It takes both nerve and brains, and it calls for some fairly clever police work; but when these three essentials are available, the bandits can be made to look silly.

The essentials were available in this case. Mr. Yocum was a good enough poker player to bluff his opponents with his life at stake. Mrs. Yocum had nerve enough to play the game with him. The police had sense enough to carry out their part of the game without upsetting the feeling of security into which the kidnapers had been buffeted. The result was a wholesome victory for law and order.

Mr. Yocum rates the congratulations of his fellow citizens—for more reasons than one.

Children—And Homes

EVERY now and then someone who professes to have more wisdom than the Magi suggests that all the children of the land should be placed in an institution and provided with dormitory beds, bread and milk and spinach, and a reading and writing and arithmetic book.

They foolishly urge that the state and not the home should bear the responsibility of rearing children and that a uniform environment will produce a standardized product which will be in keeping with the machine age in which we are living.

They forget that human nature isn't put together with six nails and a few iron bolts, but requires a leaven of sympathy, love, understanding and laughter that only a home and parents can give.

Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the United States Bureau of Home Economics, recently headed a committee which made an inquiry into family life for the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection which is scheduled for November 19th to 22nd. An interview study was made of 50 well-adjusted and 50 poorly-adjusted children. Eight thousand other school children were given a long and inclusive questionnaire.

This survey revealed that a family unit, which provides a child with a friendly and hospitable environment for the development of his emotions and abilities and affords him a secure relationship, is the ideal place for his rearing. He is loved, encouraged, and accorded the privilege of being an individual instead of an automaton.

A child has an instinctive longing to have his own family, his own name, his own parents, his own things, the survey revealed. This is a natural and not a manufactured instinct. Ever since Abraham and Lot pitched their nomad tents somewhere to the east, children, as well as men and women, have had a desire to "belong" to a special group.

Those children's homes are proving most successful which are abolishing the institutional idea in so far as is possible and adopting smaller units which resemble families.

If ever the time comes when a modern Pied Piper plays a tune which leads all the children away from the grown-up world there will be a crumbling of idealism, and without deals no nation can climb starward.

A child needs a mother who will put an extra candle on his cake when he has birthdays and let him lick the frosting bowl. He needs a father who comes down the street when the lamps are lighted. He needs a homing path.

The White House Conference is to be commended for promoting an ideal home life for the children of America.

Russians travel too much, the Soviet government has decided. It seems that a lot of them have nothing to do except go galivanting about the country. To keep them home, an increase of 25 per cent in fares has been decided upon.
 Lots of countries would like to see the government effort extended to keep more Russians at home. Too many of them are in other countries, making trouble.

A Fish Story in Three Reels!

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The best comfort that can be held out to persons with no overcoats and no place to keep warm is the fact that we are likely to experience a mild winter, although, it may be the coldest and severest in history.

Considering how many folks
 there are who confidently predict long, hard winters or short, easy winters, the complete ignorance of the U. S. Weather Bureau, here seems astonishing. There are men at the bureau who have spent decades trying to find a method of forecasting a whole season and they all had to give it up in black despair.

Sometimes it seems as if hot summers are more likely than not to be followed by warm winters, and the winters of the last 10 years or so have shown a tendency toward mildness.

"But it is utterly impossible to predict whether a season will be warmer or colder than the average," says Dr. William J. Humphreys, the Weather Bureau's erudite and world-famous meteorologist. "No two seasons are alike and they often differ widely."

"Studies have been made in all parts of the world with the idea of learning how to forecast the next season's weather, but hardly any have been published because they nearly all showed negative results.
 We must hit it right three-fourths of the time in any long range forecasting system that justifies itself
 and there isn't any such system."

"Signs" Are Hokus
 Don't go paying any attention to the amount of fur on animals or the thickness of corn husks or the amount of honey the bees have stored up. The fur depends on the animal's physical condition, husks
 don't amount to much in a drought year like this and bees are likely to sting you if you go nosing around in their hives. And don't go saying such complete nonsense as:

"Onion skin very thin
 Mild winter coming in.
 Onion skin thick and tough
 Coming winter cold and rough."
 The average winter temperature

for the area including Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut,
 New York, most of Pennsylvania,
 Michigan, northern Ohio, northern Illinois, northern Indiana, southern Iowa, northern Missouri, Nebraska and northern Kansas runs from 20 to 30 degrees Fahrenheit. Virginia, New Jersey, Maryland and the southern portions of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois as well as the border states average between 30 and 40.
 Minnesota and North Dakota, taken as a whole, appear to be the coldest states in winter. Once the thermometer went to 65 degrees below zero at a point in eastern Montana and the records bear evidence that even such places as Tennessee, Arkansas and Oklahoma have seen the temperature 60 to 20 below.

Studied Old Records
 Dr. Oliver Lanard Fassig, the climatologist, who has been associated with the Weather Bureau for 47 years, once studied weather records of Maryland for more than 100 years back, hoping to establish some kind of a periodicity. He failed to do that, but in case you have a weakness for the law of averages, here's what he found, considering any season "cold" when it averaged two degrees below average and
 "warm" when it averaged two degrees above:

In 87 years there were 23 cold
 winters, 22 warm winters and 42 average winters. Also 25 cold summers, 22 warm summers and 40 average summers. The 23 warm winters—remember that 1930 had a warm winter—were followed by four cold autumns, six average autumns and 12 warm autumns. They were followed by five cold winters, 10 average winters and seven warm winters. Eleven cold summers were followed by cold autumns, 12
 by average autumns and only one by a warm autumn. Ten were followed by cold winters, 12 by average winters and two by warm winters.

Oil Operations Begins—The derrick for the White Oil Corporation test on the George Jones farm, six miles south of Hope, was completed today, and the first carload of supplies arrived last night. Everything is being rushed so the well may be spudded in by November 25th, according to contract.

Sues Tunney for $500,000

"I told Tunney he could get rid of his dress suit," testified Tim Mara, above, sports promoter who is suing
 the former world's heavyweight champion for approximately $500,000 in a suit for an alleged breach of an oral contract. Mara contends, Tunney promised him 10 per cent of his purse
 in his fight with Dempsey at Philadelphia, and 25 per cent of his earnings after he should become champion.

This is the first test of the acreage
 that has been blocked by the Hope Oil & Leasing company in the southwest part of the county for five test wells. The second test will be located about half way between the Jones test and the city of Hope, on just what tract is yet to be determined. The well will be spudded, in by the middle of December. The three other tests will be made to the north of Hope about six miles, to the northwest eight miles and to the southwest six miles. All five drills will be in operation early in the year.

Geologists' reports of the Hempstead county field has brought many well-known operators to the territory for a look and inquiry into acreage conditions. All are keeping an eye on the development in this section.

Lady Was Weak and in Pain

Forrest City, Ark.—"I was weak

 pains in my side and back," writes Mrs. L. H. Milton, who lives on Walnut Street in this city. "I was in bed for about five weeks, not able to do a thing. This caused me to be blue and discouraged."
 "My mother gave me Cardui when I was a girl, and it helped me, so I decided to try it again.
 I sent for it and began taking it."
 "After taking one bottle of Cardiui I felt better. I kept on taking it and grew stronger. By the time I had taken three bottles, I was up and able to do my work."
 "Now I am well and strong, care for the house, and have time to things Cardui did for me."

 I got so weak I had to lay off work for days at a time. I had no appetite and everything I would consume, I'd read of Tanlac, so I thought I'd test it. Sure enough my appetite increased right away and after 6 bottles was 'bothered' with indigestion at all and now I am really enjoying meals for the first time in years.

MOM'N POP

Seventy Attend Sixth Anniversary B. & P. W.

Miss Leonora Wilson of Little Rock Was the Guest of Honor, and Mrs. Margaret Simms McDonald, Charter Member, Hostess

Miss Leonora Wilson of Little Rock, president of the Arkansas Federation of Business & Professional Women's Clubs, was the guest of honor at the meeting at the Hotel Barlow yesterday evening when seventy members and guests gathered for the sixth anniversary of the founding of the club. This is an annual event which brings together those who have been responsible for this splendid organization and each year's birthday "party" testifies most forcibly to the breadth and scope of the work accomplished from one year to the next.

Mrs. Margaret Simms McDonald, who is now a resident of Little Rock, and is state publicity chairman and who was a charter member of the Hope club, was hostess for the evening. The long dining tables in the private dining room of the hotel were lovely. The club colors, green and gold, were most effectively used in numerous flat bouquets of autumn flowers and ferns, with all green tape in low green holders placed in graceful groups at intervals. Place cards were in yellow and a happy group of seventy women found themselves most congenially placed around the festive board. A delicious five course menu was served.

Miss Mary Arnold, president, announced that business would be dispensed with for the evening and Mrs. McDonald assumed the place of toastmaster. Greetings were read from the Hope Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. McDonald quoted the International Federation president, Miss Lena Madess Phillips, in introducing Mrs. Talbot Field: "Music is the common language which all people know and can understand." Mrs. Field, who possesses a lovely soprano voice, sang "Morning on the Old Bayou" (Strickland), and gave as an encore, Carrie Jacob Bond's "The Golden Key," the federation's own song. Mrs. Frank Hicks accompanied at the piano.

Mrs. McDonald stated that this meeting was to have as its theme, the past, present and future. She recalled the time, six years ago, when a group of sixteen women met and organized the Hope club. At that time, this group was fortunate in obtaining Miss Beryl Henry for its president, and she has been an active member since that time. Miss Henry was introduced as the first speaker, who was to tell of the past. "We have passed through the trying period of adjustment and because those sixteen women possessed a vision sufficient to attract others to the cause which they had embraced, our growth has been steady and now we look into the future we see nothing but rosy prospects. All of the good things we have done, are well known; I shall not recount them. Let us forget our failures and disappointments; they are things of the past and behind us forever," said Miss Henry.

"I speak from the viewpoint of a pedagogic, naturally, since I am a member of the teaching profession," continued Miss Henry, "and as we advance in our business and professional life, I see the value of a well-balanced preparatory training, including those things which produce good health, efficiency in business and enlargement of spiritual vision. A study of economic values as pertaining to both employer and employee is essential and that is exactly what we are doing."

"Back of every successful venture is the individual effort of some person possessing vision, and such a person is Miss Mary Burgess," said Mrs. McDonald in introducing Miss Mary Burgess of Texarkana, who, with Zola Longstreth Snodgrass of Little Rock, organized the Hope club.

Miss Burgess expressed her pleasure in attending the annual birthday parties of her protegee and stated that she was building better than she knew when she made the effort to organize the Hope club. "You have done a good work in organizing the Washington club, but there is more work for you to do. Other nearby towns need your assistance in forming organizations and you must not lose sight of the fact that your work is never done. Build new organizations, but also strengthen the older ones who do not possess your vision, and never lose sight of the fact that there is new material in the form of potential members in each town where we have clubs, who must not be overlooked. They are our hope of the future."

Miss Leonora Wilson, state president, was introduced by Mrs. McDonald as her special token of appreciation to the Hope club and what it had meant to her in the past and she was to present the cause of the "future" in her address. "I cannot speak of the future," said Miss Wilson, "without first telling you something of the past. The two are inseparably linked and without the one we would not have the other."

president of the Texarkana club and Miss Mary Burgess of the same city; Mrs. W. S. Kenneday, Lonoke, Mesdames T. Y. Williams, Frank May, Luke Monroe, Luther Smith, Zack Horton; Misses Mary Catts and Ella Monroe, Washington; Mesdames Finley Ward, Roy Anderson, E. L. Rettig, Hugh A. D. Smith, Edwin Ward, O. A. Graves, Thos. Goham, L. A. Foster, E. F. McFaddin, J. B. Swader, John H. Arnold, Mac Duffie, J. M. The next meeting of the club will be on the evening of November 18 at the Hotel Barlow, with Miss Forrest Ruggles hostess, at which time a good citizenship program will be presented.

Unmarried Women Earn Most in Business World

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 5.—(P)—Single women have the best chances to earn large salaries in business, or professional career, Dr. Grace E. Manson of the Michigan bureau of business research believes, after making a four-year survey. Dr. Manson's used the answers from 46,000 questionnaires in drawing his conclusions. With allowances for age and experience, he said, single women are almost invariably better employed at higher salaries than married women. The average salary of widows, or divorced women, is about half way between the averages for single and married women.

Earnings of women increase during the first 20 years, remain stationary for the next 10 and then decrease, the survey revealed. Average annual wage of salaried women was placed at $1,540, compared with $2,043 for independent workers in business for themselves.

Relatives of Slain Man Protest Jury Action

MENA, Nov. 5.—Relatives of Ernest M. Bagwell, who was shot and killed here July 2 by his wife, were in Mena today to protest the failure of the recent Grand Jury to indict Mrs. Bagwell.

W. H. Bagwell of Pampa, Tex., B. L. Bagwell of Texoma, Okla., brothers of the slain man, and Bob Evans of Fort Worth, Texas, a brother-in-law, learned that the last Grand Jury did not act because of information from physicians that Mrs. Bagwell was believed insane when she killed her husband. The brothers said they would return and appear before the Grand Jury in April. Mrs. Bagwell is confined in the state Hospital for Nervous Diseases at Little Rock, having been ordered committed soon after Bagwell was shot and killed.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CELIA MITCHELL, 17, leaves Baltimore where she has lived with her mother, Mrs. Mitchell, and her father, Mr. Mitchell, who is a wealthy man. She is now in New York, where she is living with her father, Mr. Mitchell, who is a wealthy man. She is now in New York, where she is living with her father, Mr. Mitchell, who is a wealthy man.

BARNEY SHIELDS, young lawyer, is in love with the girl, Mitchell. He is a young man, who is a lawyer, and he is in love with the girl, Mitchell. He is a young man, who is a lawyer, and he is in love with the girl, Mitchell.

Although Mitchell forbids Celia to see Barney, she goes on to see him. She is a young girl, who is in love with Barney, and she goes on to see him. She is a young girl, who is in love with Barney, and she goes on to see him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVII

It was Evelyn Parsons' last night as much as Mitchell's. She was in the room, and she was in the room. She was in the room, and she was in the room. She was in the room, and she was in the room.

There was a telephone in the room. Celia lifted the instrument and gave the operator a number. Before the call was answered she changed her mind and set the telephone down.

It was after six o'clock. In another part of the apartment preparations for dinner must be going on. Evelyn must be dressing and the maid would be helping her. There was no sound of life, however, outside the door of Celia's room.

The girl made her preparations swiftly. She dried her eyes and tried to erase their swollen redness. Then she got out her traveling bag, opened it and tossed in garments and toilet articles. She changed to a plain dark frock and pulled a felt hat over her head. She barely glanced at the mirror, as she threw the things on. Speed was what counted!

There was enough money in her purse, Celia counted it. Twenty-four dollars and 40 cents. She picked up her gloves and was ready to leave. Celia had one hand on the door knob when she stopped. Suppose her father had not gone! He and Evelyn might still be in the living room and she would have to pass the door.

She saw at once that she could not risk the encounter. It was difficult to wait, but Celia set down the traveling bag. She dropped into a chair. One foot tapped nervously. After a moment she rose, walked to the window and then sat down again. She had never known time to pass so slowly.

At seven o'clock Celia could delay no longer. If Mitchell was there he and Evelyn would be at the dinner table. As noiselessly as possible she opened the door.

Light from the living room gleamed in the hallway. Celia crept gingerly along. She hesitated, saw that there was no one in the room beyond and reached the living room. It was deserted. A moment more and she had reached the door leading into the corridor.

No one had seen her! Celia was breathing rapidly as she stepped out on the street a few minutes later.

"Do you wish a cab, madam?" It was the liveried doorman who asked the question. The girl nodded. When the cab drew up she entered and sat back against the seat, grateful for the shadowed darkness. She told the driver to take her to Grand Central station.

They reached the railway terminal. Celia paid the cab driver, picked up her bag and went inside. She walked until she found an array of telephones. There she gave the number of Barney's club and waited. A feminine voice answered.

"Is Mr. Barney Shields in?" Celia asked.

"What was the name, please?" "Shields. Barney Shields. I'd like to speak to him, please."

"How do you spell the name, madam?"

"S h i e l d s—Shields!"

"One moment," the inconspicuous voice replied, "I'll see if he's in."

The air in the booth was stuffy. Celia's pulse was racing and she felt faint. She clung for support to the shelf on which the telephone rested.

Minutes seemed to pass before the soprano voice again answered.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Shields is not here, madam. Will you leave a number?"

"He's not there?"

"No, madam. Would you like to leave a number for him to call?"

"No, thank you," Celia put down the telephone and stepped out of the booth.

She had to see Barney! That thought was uppermost in the girl's mind. She had to see Barney and tell him it had all been a mistake in the first place. She must apologize for what her father had said. She could not leave and have Barney Shields think she and

Gladis Tollett in Dairy Show Report

4-H Club Member Writes an Interesting Story on Trip to St. Louis

Following is an account of the National Dairy Show as seen by Gladis Tollett, one of the 4-H club boys in Hempstead county who won a free trip, and represented Arkansas at the show this year, as a dairy cattle judge.

The National Dairy Show. Outstanding on the dairy horizon in the United States, and promising wonderful achievements in increasing America's interest in and appreciation of the dairy industry, is the National Dairy Show held annually in St. Louis, Mo.

The dairy show is housed in a $1,500,000 building. The main arena is 376 by 276 feet and has a show ring 266 by 100 feet. It has 12,000 permanent seats. The balcony of this building contains 16,000 square feet used to house the 4-H club boys and girls who come from every quarter of America to attend the show.

Special efforts are made each year to reach all 4-H club boys and girls. They are given banquets by various organizations including Washington University and Purina Mills, and they are carried on educational tours, visiting zoo, parks, Jefferson memorial, boat riding etc.

Here, over 1200 of the finest and best dairy cattle from all corners of the country are shown. Much valuable information can be gained by studying these cattle. Statisticians estimate that the worth of the cattle alone at this year's dairy show would buy one of the navy's new battleships.

In addition to the dairy show, there was the largest poultry show ever held in the west. Over 2500 birds from all over the United States, including some from Canada, were shown. Besides the 2500 chickens, the show in the poultry house consists of more than 400 rabbits, 100 guinea pigs, 100 turkeys and 300 waterfowl.

More than 500 of the finest of all saddle horses from all sections in the nation were entered in the National Horse Show, held in connection with the National Dairy Show, competing for $35,200 prizes.

The National Dairy Show has been in existence for 24 years. It is one of the best places in the country to go to get ideas and methods on modern dairying. It furnishes a wonderful sight seeing trip. It is both educational and recreational. Here you are in constant association with boys and girls, men and women who are representatives from other states, and who are of good moral character.

From now on at least once a year St. Louis will be the rendezvous of the best in America's great dairy industry.

Frightened to Death
MIAMI, Fla., (UP)—Jesse Moore, 30, negro, died of fright here when he was raided a dice game in which he was a native participant.

As Bulgaria's King Wed Italian Princess

A part of the royal wedding ceremony at Assisi, Italy, which allied—both politically and romantically—the Balkan neighbor, Bulgaria, is shown in this Hope Star-NEA Service photo. Here you see King Boris of Bulgaria, resplendent in the uniform of a Bulgarian cavalry officer, and his bride, the former Princess Giovanna of Italy, who hastened through a pelting rainstorm to their carriage after their marriage in the Papal Basilica. The young queen is wearing a white silk bridal dress with a veil that is a priceless heirloom. Thirty thousand persons brave wind and rain to greet the royal newly-weds.

Gobblers Glum On Turkey Day Outlook

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 5.—(UP)—The business depression has proved a medium through which more persons can observe the approaching Thanksgiving in traditional manner than in many years.

Along with other commodities, the price of turkeys has dropped, and producers dealers report the price is and will be lower this year than in more than a decade.

The United States turkey crop will be adequate to meet the demand, and despite the summer drought will be but three per cent below that of 1929 in the estimate of the Ben Abloh Produce Company here, one of the largest shippers in the southwest which specializes in turkey trade.

The Texas crop will be about six per cent below last year's, the firm predicted.

At Cuero, south Texas town which styles itself the turkey capital of the universe where the turkey trot—a fantastic parade of gobbling birds—takes the rank of a queen's ball, the price is now quoted at 12 cents a pound.

Turkey farmers are urged to hold their crop at present and market only the choicest birds to uphold the standards of the village.

Cuero flocks have had a fair season and will in the main go to market in favorable condition. A normal crop is anticipated.

Last year 1,600 car loads of turkeys were shipped from Texas to the north and east.

Turkey raising is becoming a science in Texas. A judging, grading and raising school sponsored by the A. & M. College was held at San Angelo at the opening of the season.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 5.—(UP)—Nebraska will have approximately 30 per cent fewer turkeys for the holiday trade this year than last, according to estimates by A. E. Anderson, state and federal agricultural statistician.

The decreased crop this year is in keeping with the 10 per cent decrease in the states furnishing the largest commercial supply. The decrease for the country as a whole is about 3 per cent, Anderson said.

Discouraging prices to Nebraska turkey growers last year because of the large crop accounts for the decrease this year, the report states. Nebraska normally ships from 25 to 30 cars of turkeys per year.

About 54 per cent of the Nebraska turkey crop will be ready for the Thanksgiving market, Anderson estimated.

NAPOLÉON SUFFERED FROM EPILEPSY

Many Of The World's Leaders Were Epileptics

New York, N. Y. The leading scientists and physicians have for some time tried to discover the various causes and treatment of epilepsy.

During the recent world war a new method of treatment was used on thousands of sufferers with remarkable results. An interesting booklet describing this new treatment for epilepsy will be sent free to all people who are interested. It tells how attacks can be quickly stopped without resorting to harmful habit-forming drugs. This booklet explains how this terrible affliction has at last been conquered.

Thousands of epileptics who have used the new treatment are once more living a normal life. Readers of this newspaper can get a copy of this interesting booklet by writing direct to the Educational Division, Desk M, 509 Fifth Avenue, New York City. It's free for the asking.

Aged Indian Couple Shun House For Wintertime

BURKE, S. D., Nov. 5.—(UP)—While many may seek the shelter of houses and the warmth of a modern furnace when winter comes, but Planty and his wife, full blooded Sioux Indians of near Winner, S. D. express their preference for the tents in which their forefathers lived.

The aged couple, who have probably passed their golden wedding anniversary by more than 10 years, live in a tent pitched in the dooryard of the log house which the government provided for them in 1879. Neither can speak English, but through an interpreter, Planty Horse had made it known that he and his wife are more than 80. They eat from a kettle over a camp fire and sleep on the ground with only a blanket to protect them.

Old Mill Still Turns Out Its Daily Grist

GENESEE, Wis., Nov. 5.—(UP)—An old stone mill erected by Benjamin A. Jenkins in 1848 has been grinding flour here for 82 years.

When Jenkins milled flour in 1853 that won first prize in the Crystal Palace in New York this community was called Jenkinsville after its founder. Later Jenkins was influential in having the name changed to Geneseo after the valley in New York State, where he originally lived.

Preparation for NATURAL GAS Goes On

DAY and night, year in and year out, in freezing weather or in blistering sun, along muddy roads or over trails deep in dust, heavy machinery and supplies are being hauled to some scene of operation carried on by Your Gas Company.

The peak demand for Natural Gas may come several months from now, and last but a few days during a bitter cold spell, yet during the intervening months of low gas consumption the preparation goes on. Constant expansion of facilities and extension of pipe lines are but parts of the obligation resting upon this institution to render adequate service to consuming patrons in nearly a hundred communities in the tri-state section of Arkansas, Louisiana and East Texas.

It is our happy privilege thus to contribute to the industrial development of this great area.

Governor Plays Hookey and Bags Two Deer

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 5.—(UP)—Playing hookey is not confined to school boys. Governor Dan Moody played hookey from the governor's office a little over a week ago and slipped into Old Mexico on a hunting trip.

Incidentally he bagged two deer, that will not count against his hunting privileges in Texas this year, when the deer season opens on this side.

Ross Sterling of Houston, Democratic nominee for governor, who was hunting in Mexico, was not so lucky.

AUCTION BIDDING:
No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one no trump and all passed. If A opened the five of clubs, how can Z score a small slam against any defense?

AUCTION BIDDING:
No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one heart. A passed, Y bid two diamonds and B bid two spades. Z bid three hearts and all passed. A opened the king of spades, which held the trick. He continued with the seven of spades. B won this trick with the ace and the problem is to pick out B's correct lead at the third trick and the reasons for it. This is an interesting hand, so try to figure out what B should do and why.

CONTRACT BIDDING:
Z, as dealer, should bid one heart. A should pass. Y should bid two diamonds and B should bid two spades. Z should bid three hearts. A should pass and Y should bid four hearts. B should pass, for a double would locate the heart strength. The play is the same as at Auction.

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win five of the eight tricks against any defense?

Solution: Z should lead the six of spades, which A B can win, either (a) in A's hand with the nine of spades, or (b) in B's hand with queen of spades. (a) Suppose A wins the first trick with the nine of spades. A's best play is the six of hearts, which Y wins. The latter should now play the queen of diamonds, on which Z should discard the eight of spades and A the seven of hearts. At trick four, Y should lead the ten of clubs and A should refuse to win the trick. At trick five, Y should lead his last club and A is forced to win the trick. Y Z must now win a heart trick and thus score five of the eight tricks.

If at trick two A had led the queen of hearts and followed with the six of

When Statesmen Go Native

The American congressional committee sent to American Samoa to inquire into the American system of government in that dependency, carried on its work in picturesque surroundings, as shown by these photographs from the far off Pacific Isle.
